FLOOD-HIT BUSINESSES

Cash boost offer for flood-hit West Oxfordshire businesses to help pick up the pieces

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

RESIDENTS and businesses in West Oxfordshire who were badly affected by the winter floods can apply for financial support from the district council.

Fifty residential properties have received council tax discounts of more than £11,300, while six commercial organisations have been given business rate refunds amounting to over £5,800.

And 10 business owners will receive flood support grants totalling more than £22,700 to help meet clean-up, repair and replacement costs.

Witney Warehouse furniture store was one of the businesses that was severely affected by this winter's floods.

The majority of its furniture and business stock was destroyed in January due to water damage, and the business was forced to temporarily close down.

Because of their previous flooding history, the company's insurance excess had risen from £500 to £20,000.

Co-owner Gary Soames said: "This year was the second time floods had caused us to close.

"Our stock was affected, people couldn't come to us, the flooring was completely destroyed and we had a big problem with insurance because the excess was so high.

"It was wonderful to get a business support grant and it's enabled us to stay in business and to re-build it.

"Essentially we've had to start again, but luckily by moving to new premises at Windrush Industrial Park, we re-opened by April 5.

"We will not flood up here and so the business can now only work, or not work, by our own efforts."

In addition to immediate assistance for flood-affected properties, £5,000 is also available for householders and businesses to install protection measures to minimise the risk of future flooding.

Where more than one property in the same area is affected by flooding, funding can be pooled to establish a community-level protection scheme.

For more information go to westoxon.gov.uk/flooding, call 01993 861000 or email floodgrant@westoxon.gov.uk.

Supporters' joy at stadium decision

HOPES are still high for Oxford United to own their own ground after an appeal to prevent the Kassam Stadium being listed as a community asset was quashed by a judge.

A second appeal from former U's chairman Firoz Kassam was rejected at a tribunal at Oxford Magistrates Court last month, it was revealed earlier this week.

OxVox, the independent supporters trust of Oxford United, had their bid to list the Grenoble Road stadium as a community asset approved by Oxford City Council last May.

Judge Nicholas Warren rejected Kassam's appeal, which deemed it inappropriate to designate the car park and the building as a community asset under the Localism Act 2011.

OxVox chairman Mark Sennett said: "Firoka have their reasons for doing it.

"We have spoken with them about it and absolutely understand their points of view and they understand ours."

Last year's approval was

By Jack Johnson
jack@taylornewspapers.co.uk

believed to be the first of its kind for a football stadium and allows OxVox six months to match any offers for the ground.

Mr Sennett continued: "We're obviously delighted with the outcome because the stadium is of great community value to the people of Oxfordshire and is the home of Oxford United.

"This means Oxford United fans have a seat at the table for the future of the stadium.

"But this is part of a wider journey and we are committed to the aspiration of reuniting Oxford United with a stadium.

"I've had positive conversations with Firoz Kassam and the football club about that."

Last month, Oxford United's fellow tenants London Welsh signed a new three-year agreement to continue playing rugby at the stadium.

Mr Sennett added: "I have met Bleddyn Phillips (London Welsh chairman) and they want to make an impact in Oxfordshire.

"But from our point of view the most important thing is Oxford United acquiring the stadium and that has no bearing on who any of the tenants are.

"The aim is to get Oxford United owning a stadium."

Oxford United have played at the Kassam Stadium since 2001, when they moved from their old Manor Ground in Headington.

Mr Kassam was chairman of the club from 1999 to 2006 before selling it, but he kept ownership of the stadium.

Oxford United and London Welsh both declined to comment on the decision.

County's hospital trust 'needs improving'

OXFORD University Hospitals NHS Trust has been rated 'good' by the Care Quality Commission, but it stated certain areas 'require improvement'.

The trust runs Headington's John Radcliffe Hospital, Churchill Hospital, and Nuffield Orthopaedic Centre and Banbury's Horton General Hospital.

The report published on Tuesday after an inspection in March criticised the accident and emergency departments for regularly missing waiting time targets due to a lack of beds.

It also said operations are cancelled too often, and the outpatient department booking service is not good enough.

But it praised staff stating that patients received compassionate care, and significant efforts had been made to improve the effective discharge of patients.

Healthwatch Oxfordshire said: "The report provides detail of a generally well run service highlighting the many innovative and professional services.

"It is however important to recognise there are points of criticism included in the report which will require attention.

"We welcome the strong evidence of the many areas of good practice outlined, and look forward to working with the Trust's management to ensure the patients using the hospitals are both heard and listened to."

Top of table for Oxford

OXFORD University has the joint highest quality of staff and lectures, according to the results of the latest Times Higher Education (THE) Student Experience Survey.

Together with Cambridge University, Oxford came top of the poll, which asked students to rate their university experience.

Oxford dropped two places in the overall best student experience league table, falling from second to equal fourth with the University of Dundee.

Road closed for six weeks

OXFORD: George Street is currently closed from Cornmarket to Victoria Court because of the installation of underground mains services.

Contractors ISG Construction Ltd are carrying out the work as part of a major refurbishment project.

The closure came into effect last Sunday and will last for four weeks, with a further six weeks of one-way working thereafter.

The western end of George Street will remain open, while temporary lights are controlling traffic at the junction with George Street, Worcester Street and Hythe Bridge Street.

Distraction burglary - charge made

A 29-YEAR-OLD woman has been charged after a distraction burglary in Oxford last week.

The woman was charged with burglary dwelling on May 9, and has been bailed to appear before Oxford Magistrates' Court on May 27.

It relates to an incident at a house in Beauchamp Place on April 28.

Boundaries reviewed

DIDCOT Town Council will submit a response declaring its support to expand its current boundaries as part of a South Oxfordshire District Council (SODC) review.

The Community Governance Review plans to incorporate 316 houses in the Millbrook estate, currently in East Hagbourne, and parcels of land in Long Wittenham and West Hagbourne within the Didcot parish.

The areas currently in Long Wittenham and West Hagbourne have been allocated for housing developments – the North East Didcot and Great Western Park estates.

Didcot Town Council say the developments will "form urban extensions to the town", which they will look to "for their facilities".

Last week's Oxfordshire Guardian reported East Hagbourne Parish Council's dismay at the proposal, as chairman David Rickeard said residents "want to remain" in the parish.

However, Tom Bowtell, chairman of Long Wittenham Parish Council, said in the long term he had no problem, but would like to see road networks improved before the boundary changed.

Meanwhile, West Hagbourne Parish Council chairman Michael Butler said he was happy for the land to be given to Didcot.

Consultation on the boundary changes ends on May 31 and a decision will be made at SODC's council meeting on July 17.

Traffic jams avoided after bridge solution

TRAFFIC mayhem feared by residents around Wantage was averted yesterday after new plans for bridge work on Wantage Road were agreed.

Network Rail confirmed they will build a new bridge next to the existing one by the Volunteer pub on the A338 – meaning the road will not have to be closed for the six months originally planned.

They hoped to shut the major commuter to raise height of the current bridge.

But after outcry from residents in December the council blocked the plans.

The new deal was struck with Oxfordshire County Council at County Hall in New Road, Oxford.

Network Rail needs to raise the bridge by 1.3m to install electric wires over the train line below.

The project is part of the £1bn electrification of the Great Western Main Line.

By Katriona Ormiston
katriona@taylornewspapers.co.uk

County councillor for Wantage and Grove Zoe Patrick was at the meeting.

She said: "I'm pleased Network Rail have listened to what the community said to them.

"Last year there was an outcry. It was absolutely unacceptable that Network Rail was going to close that road for so long."

East Hanney resident Keith Diment said: "I remember that bridge being closed for four weeks in 2005 and that caused enormous problems, that traffic was awful.

"We couldn't dream that anyone would suggest such a thing. There is a huge rush hour of commuters driving to work in the in the morning."

The work, which was due to start this year, but is now likely to start in 2015.

County council spokesman Martin Crabtree said: "Any road closures necessary to complete the reconstruction work at this location is likely to be limited short periods only."

Network Rail also confirmed work to bridges at Challow Road, the A417, and Steventon High Street, the B4017, will not be carried out at the same time.

Network Rail spokesman Anne-Marie Batson said: "Network Rail confirmed they listened to the concerns raised by Ed Vaizey and Oxfordshire County Council, and have developed a proposal for the A338 Wantage Road bridge rebuild that will keep the road open."

Lock keepers face unclear future amid agency cuts

THE role of lock keepers on the River Thames through West Oxfordshire should not be scrapped, councillors have called.

District councillors Peter Kelland, for Eynsham and Cassington, and Steve Good, for Standlake, Aston and Stanton Harcourt, put forward a motion supporting lock keepers at West Oxfordshire District Council's full meeting yesterday.

The role of lock keepers could be under threat ahead of planned Environment Agency cuts.

Where the cuts may be made has not yet been decided.

The district council's motion called upon the Environment Agency to retain the present system.

It said: "This Council believes resident lock keepers play an important role in the life of and safety on the River Thames and calls upon the Environment Agency to retain the present system of lock keepers, in particular along the remote stretch of the River Thames which forms the southern boundary of our district and includes the locks at Buscot, Grafton, Radcot, Rushey, Shifford, Northmoor, Pinkhill and Eynsham."

GMB union has warned the jobs of 90 staff who look after locks and weirs along the river are at threat, risking peoples' safety by the river.

Walkers paint Blenheim pink in cancer charity walk

ONE thousand walkers descended on Blenheim Palace at the weekend for the Pink Ribbonwalk, raising money for Breast Cancer Care.

The event celebrated its 10th anniversary this year, and walkers strolled up to 20 miles around the grounds with giant inflatable pink candles last Saturday to mark the occasion.

It is hoped that the walk will raise more than £100,000 for the charity.

TV personality Linda Barker took part in the walk, and she said: "I've done the Pink Ribbonwalk many times, and it's a fantastic day to join in with.

"Everybody rallied round and the walkers were so cheery and friendly.

"A lot of people are affected by breast cancer, so it is really important to raise money for Breast Cancer Care so the charity can support as many people as possible."

Lucy Johnston, UK walks manager for the charity, said: "We would like to say a huge thank you to everyone who walked at Blenheim, particularly through the wind and rain!

"We are once again overwhelmed by the dedication and generosity of our supporters in Witney, Bicester, Oxford and beyond.

"The fantastic efforts of everyone will help us provide vital support so everyone affected has someone to turn to."

Fundraising

OXFORD: Business energy supplier Opus Energy, which is based in Oxford, has revealed it raised nearly £30,000 for two charities in the past financial year.

The group has donated £23,770 to Mencap and £6,175 for the Rainbows Hospice in Loughborough, exceeding the £25,000 target that staff had set.

Money was raised through numerous activities including sky diving, marathons and live music concerts.

This year, the company has again pledged to raise £20,000 for Mencap and £5,000 for Rainbows, as well as offering support to a third charity: Beating Bowel Cancer.

Sleep study

OXFORD: Modern perceptions of how much sleep we need are arrogant, according to Oxford University researchers.

Scientists at Oxford, Cambridge, Harvard, Manchester and Surrey universities have collaborated for the BBC's Day of the Body Clock programme.

Prof Russell Foster, who claims people get on average one or two hours less sleep every night compared to 60 years ago, says human beings are a "supremely arrogant species".

Inquiry to look at discharge support

A NATIONAL inquiry to uncover the dangers of patients being discharged from hospitals and care homes without proper help is being supported by Healthwatch Oxfordshire.

The inquiry is asking for people to come forward and speak about their real life experiences of the discharge process, and learn what can be done to avoid health problems and readmission afterwards.

Healthwatch Oxfordshire believes that such incidents could be avoided locally if more care and attention was given to preparing people returning to their homes and communities after treatment.

Larry Sanders, chair of Healthwatch Oxfordshire, said: "We are pleased that Healthwatch England is using its statutory powers to look into the problem of unsafe discharges.

"These arise when people who are elderly, homeless or experiencing mental health problems are released from hospital or a care home without the arrangements being made which allow them to live safely.

"This is a major issue around the country, including Oxfordshire.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

"I am very proud to represent the county on the national panel which is overseeing the inquiry."

Anna Bradley, chair of Healthwatch England, said: "Taking the time to ask patients about how they are going to cope when they return home and ensuring everyone has the support they need sounds simple, but all too often fails to happen.

"Sadly, it's when people fall through the gaps between the different health and social care services that serious problems occur, leading to unnecessary suffering for those involved.

"Ultimately what is needed is for NHS Trusts, clinical commissioning groups and local councils to work together with patients to manage the discharge process as part of a much more integrated health and care service."

Anyone who has experience of a poorly planned discharge is asked to contact the Healthwatch Oxfordshire team on 01865 520520.

Pub closed following police drugs raid

A MAN has been charged following a drugs raid on a Cowley pub.

The 55-year-old man was arrested at the Nelson public house, in Between Towns Road, on Friday night.

He is charged with possession with intent to supply class A drugs.

A large sum of cash was also seized from another man as a result of the warrant.

Police officers tested areas throughout the pub with swabs and found widespread evidence of drug use.

The warrant came as part of Operation Relight, which is part of an investigation to crack down on the supply of class A drugs.

Supt Christian Bunt, local policing area commander for Oxford, said: "We will now be liaising closely with the management of the pub to look at any on-going issues there.

"Based on the findings from [Friday] night, we will consider if we have sufficient evidence to take the license to review.

"In the interim, the pub has voluntarily agreed to close."

Richard Adams, environmental protection service manager at Oxford City Council, said: "Operation Relight again shows the real benefit of agencies working together."

Anyone with further information that may aid the operation is asked to call 101, or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Josh Florey feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps.

Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service Oxfordshire from their local depots and Josh is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truthis that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Josh a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Former pupils in reunion pledge

By Jack Johnson

THREE former Cheney School pupils are encouraging their old classmates to attend a reunion as part of the 60th anniversary of its foundation.

Bernard Stone, 70, Bryan Brown, 67, and Nigel Jones, 66, are appealing for people who attended the school between 1954 and 1972 to join them for a day of celebration on July 11.

John Henry Brookes founded the technical school in 1934 and the trio are appealing for people from this particular 18-year period - before the school merged with Cheney Girls' School and when it became a comprehensive.

Mr Brown, who recently completed a biography of Mr Brookes, said: "What we want is for people to contact each other.

"Someone knows one or two people and what we want is to support it."

Cheney School began as the Junior Day Department of the Oxford Tech before becoming a separate secondary technical school in 1944.

Sharing the buildings of the Technical College on Church Street, Oxford, the school moved to Cheney Lane, Headington, in 1954, taking the name of the street as its new name.

The college also moved to Headington, later renamed the Oxford Polytechnic and now Oxford Brookes University.

The trio have so far attracted 60 of their former classmates to the celebration at Cheney School, which will include a tour of the current buildings.

Cheney was the only technical school in Oxford before the change in 1972, providing educational streams in technology, art and commerce.

Mr Stone, who chose the technology stream, said: "Because of the schooling I had when I started studying for Architectural exams I was streets ahead of everyone else."

Arnold Wainwright was head of the technical school and Mr Jones said he was a character that everyone will remember.

If you attended the school between 1954 – 1972, visit cheney1954-1972.org.

Appeal after man pushed by mugger

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after a man was the victim of an attempted robbery in Cowley last week.

At around 8pm on May 6, the victim was walking along the subway under the eastern bypass from Fern Hill Road towards the BMW plant, when he was approached by another man.

The man then pushed the victim up against a wall and demanded he hand over his property.

The victim was able to kick the suspect in the shins and run away.

Police are looking for a black male, 6ft 3ins, aged in his mid-20s, of average build and with very short black hair in connection with the incident.

He was wearing a black Adidas hooded top, which has three white stripes down both the arms.

Investigating officer PC Paul Jones from Oxford Police Station said: "Due to the time of night, it was still light and people would have been using the subway.

"If anyone was in the area and used the underpass and recognises the man from the description given, please contact me on 101."

Building wins top accolade

AN OXFORD Brookes teaching block has been voted 'Building of the Year' at the Royal Institute of British Architecture (RIBA) South awards.

The John Henry Brookes Building beat competition from sites across the south, including 11 others in Oxfordshire, to take the top prize.

It also won the Sustainability Award at the ceremony last Thursday, while the building's architects Design Engine were also honoured.

Judges praised the look of the building, which opened in February this year to provide a library, teaching space, Students' Union and support services.

As a regional winner, the building will now be considered for the national RIBA Stirling Prize.

Professor Janet Beer, vice chancellor of Oxford Brookes University, said: "The John Henry Brookes Building is the biggest and best signal that at Oxford Brookes we put the student experience at the heart of everything we do.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

"Anyone who has seen the way in which students have already made the space their own will recognise that not only is it beautiful, it is also functional.

"Together with architects Design Engine, we are delighted that this fantastic building has been recognised by RIBA and is now in contention for the prestigious Stirling Prize."

Matt Gaskin, head of the school of architecture at the university, said: "The award is testament to our vision in providing inspirational architectural spaces to complement our top class teaching and research.

"To have award-winning architecture on campus will further inspire our staff and students."

RIBA regional director James Robinson added: "There was a fantastically high standard to the RIBA awards this year.

"We are very lucky in the south to have the local ambition and design talent to be able to complete buildings of this quality."

John Ridgett, associate director for Design Engine, said: "The greatest achievement will be if the building inspires students for generations."

County council issue cleaner drains advice

AFTER a fatberg caused Oxford's roads to come to a standstill at the beginning of last month, the county council is urging people not to pour fat and oil down their drains.

The sewer under Hollybush Row, Oxford, became clogged up after a mass of fat and wet wipes built up and hardened.

Blocked sewers can cause homes to flood and Matt Beesley, the county council's waste management service officer, is asking residents not to pour oil away.

"Cooking oil is a valuable resource and putting it down the drain not only causes blockages but means it is going to waste," he said.

"All types of oil can be recycled by putting small amounts into your food waste recycling bin.

"If you have larger amounts it can be soaked into newspaper first."

Thames Water spends £12 million a year on clearing blockages in sewers.

Karen Nelson, Thames Water sewer manager, added: "We would urge people to keep their sewers running by remembering to 'Bin It – Don't Block It'."

Camilla comes to Oxford for visit

OXFORD was host to Camilla, the Duchess of Cornwall last Friday, as she opened a new research centre before meeting staff and patients at Helen & Douglas House.

The Duchess started the day by officially opening Oxford University's new £12m Botnar Research Centre on the site of Headington's Nuffield Orthopaedic Centre.

She was given a tour of the facility and was shown a simulator for surgical skills training, before having a go at operating on a model shoulder and knee herself.

Professor Andrew Carr, director of the new research centre, said: "We were delighted that the Duchess of Cornwell was able to come and visit here again.

"Conditions such as arthritis and osteoporosis affect the quality of life of many people, particularly in an ageing population.

"There is a great need for improved treatments to tackle the large burden of disease, pain and disability, and make a real difference to people's lives."

The Duchess then made the trip across Oxford to Helen & Douglas House, where she helped to celebrate the hospice's 10th birthday.

She toured the building and spoke with children and young adults staying at the hospice, as well as staff and volunteers, before joining in with a birthday photograph in the site's garden.

On her departure, she was presented with a découpage gift made in the Douglas House art room by guests staying at the hospice.

One of the children who the Duchess met was Ollie Samways, who regularly visits the hospice.

His mother Marie McVicker said: "It was lovely to meet the Duchess, she was very down to earth and very friendly.

"She met Ollie at the beginning of the visit and then again near the end, and I was very touched that she remembered his name."

Tom Hill, chief executive of Helen & Douglas House, said: "The Duchess, as she always does on occasions like this, put the children, young people and their families before anyone else.

"My lasting memory is of Her Royal Highness kneeling beside the wheelchair of a very poorly child showing the deepest concern for mum and dad."

Healthcare open day

AN INTERACTIVE exhibition showing how everyday objects have transformed healthcare is being staged by the Oxford Biomedical Research Centre (BRC) on Monday.

Taking place at the John Radcliffe Hospital, the exhibition will feature demonstrations of the latest technology and techniques for tackling conditions such as cancer, dementia and arthritis.

Visitors will be able to extract DNA from strawberries, as well as taking on the centre's 'infection experts' at a game of Bug Top Trumps.

Researchers and medical professionals will also be on hand to answer questions in issues including DNA sequencing, the importance of sleep and how data drives new treatments and services.

BRC director Professor Keith Channon said: "Research plays a vital role in improving healthcare and our teams are at the forefront of research both nationally and internationally.

"Patients and the public are at the heart of what we do, from helping shape the questions we ask to participating in projects and trials.

"The open day is a way of sharing our work in a fun and interactive way and saying thank you for the support we get."

The open day will run from 12.30pm to 4.30pm at the John Radcliffe's West Wing Atrium.

Sports fund for budding new athletes

WEST OXON: The district council has been awarded £11,800 from the Sportivate London 2012 legacy programme, to encourage young people in the district to take up a new sport.

The council already run a number of sports sessions for young people to take part in, and the funding will allow them to continue these free of charge.

Kyle Harrington, 14, has been attending skateboarding sessions, and said: "We've learned loads of new things and I think a lot of us will be on our skateboards more often now."

New Mayor

WALLINGFORD: Jane Titchener was officially unveiled as the new mayor of Wallingford at the town's mayor making ceremony on Monday evening.

Cllr Titchener succeeds Bernard Stone for 2014/15, while Lynda Atkins will be deputy mayor.

On Sunday, town clerk Jamie Baskeyfield will lead the town councillors to Cllr Titchener's home on St Nicholas Road, and walk her up to St Mary's Church in the market place for an 11am service.

Broadband benefits across Oxon

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

MORE residents and businesses in South Oxfordshire, Vale of White Horse and West Oxfordshire are set to benefit from superfast broadband, after the district councils agreed to provide more funding for the project.

South Oxfordshire councillors agreed to put forward £1m, which is hoped will boost coverage from 53 per cent to 95 per cent by December 2015.

The Vale, which already has 68 per cent coverage, is hoping to boost the figure to 96 per cent, and is providing £250,000 to improve broadband in the district.

And West Oxfordshire will provide a loan of £1.6m to the Cotswold Broadband project, which is looking to achieve 100 per cent coverage.

Judith Nimmo-Smith, cabinet member for economic development at South Oxfordshire District Council, said: "We are well aware that many people currently experience slow broadband speeds.

"We were very keen to ensure that we wouldn't end up leaving small pockets of the community at a disadvantage.

"Our investment, together with the Broadband Delivery UK funding, extends the reach of superfast broadband in South Oxfordshire that little bit further, making a big difference for many people across the district."

Elaine Ware, cabinet member for economy at Vale of White Horse District Council, said: "The Vale already has a fairly high broadband reach.

"However we are well aware that if we leave it at [the Vale's countywide target of] 93 per cent coverage, there will be areas who will still not receive the broadband speeds they need.

"This additional investment ensures that this is addressed and puts us that much closer to getting 100 per cent coverage."

William Barton, West Oxfordshire District Council's economic development officer, said: "Our members have been very clear in their aspiration to secure dull coverage in the district.

"Members felt that they owe it to the district and everyone who lives, works and visits here, to try and maximise the potential chance of achieving as close to 100 per cent coverage.

"Although things are still in the very early stages and there is a lot of work to be done to progress the project, this is exciting news for West Oxfordshire."

Artist vies for prize

AN OXFORD hand-engraver has been shortlisted for an international art prize, and will be vying for the £10,000 top prize this summer.

Philip Lawson Johnston has been nominated for the David Shepherd Wildlife Foundation's Wildlife Artist of the Year exhibition, with the winner set to be announced at London's Mall Galleries between June 2 and 7.

Wildlife artist David Shepherd, who launched the competition in 2008, said: "The shortlisted entries are once again exceptional, and all the work was quite breathtaking."

Pride in our local police force

CRIME, and fear of crime, is one of the issues which is of most concern to my constituents in Didcot and Wantage, so I was delighted recently to hear from the local Area Supt Andy Boyd that his team has been able to reduce crime whilst increasing the number of offenders who have been brought to justice. There were, last year, over a 1,000 less victims of crime in South Oxfordshire and the Vale of White Horse area than there were two years ago. In the last financial year, this was the second best performing LPA in Thames Valley.

The police are rightly proud that you are less likely to be a victim of crime in South Oxfordshire or the Vale of White Horse than almost anywhere else in the country. Also, if somebody commits a crime within our district they are far more likely to be caught.

Our local police force has reduced dwelling burglary by 60% in the last ten years and they are determined to reduce it still further. They will also be prioritising offences of violence this year. Historically, the largest volume of these offences have occurred during the Friday and Saturday night time economy period as a result of increased intoxication levels. They have worked hard with their partners, including our fantastic Street Pastors in Wantage and Wallingford, and as a result of this for the first time in many years violent incidents in our town centres on a Friday and Saturday evening have decreased.

Didcot and Wantage is the most rural constituency in the South East, so I am very pleased indeed to hear that tackling rural crime will again be a priority for the police this year. They have reduced this crime by 25%, although they recognise there is a great deal that still needs to be done.

The Police are quite justifiably very proud indeed of all they have achieved locally, and I am proud, as are the local people I talk to, that we have a police force in this area which really does do a fantastic job for us, without ever resting on their laurels.

Ex-teacher is jailed for '80s sex offences

A FORMER Wallingford teacher has been jailed for two years for historic sex offences against a teenage girl.

Nigel Mayglothling, 54, of Church Gate, Colston Bassett, Nottingham, pleaded guilty to nine counts of indecent assault and was sentenced on May 2 at Oxford Crown Court.

The offences were committed between 1987 and 1989, when Mayglothling worked at the now closed Carmel College in Wallingford.

Mayglothling will remain on the Sex Offenders' Register for 10 years.

Investigating officer Det Con Patricia Coyne, from the Child Abuse Investigation Unit, said: "This abuse affected the victim's life in all areas since that time. I would like to thank her for having the courage to support the case.

"The sentence demonstrates that historic sexual abuse cases will be pursued to ensure those responsible for such offences are brought to justice."

Keri-Anne is back for Palace swim

By Jack Johnson
jack@taylornewspapers.co.uk

OLYMPIC swimming star Keri-Anne Payne will return to Blenheim Palace this September for the second SwimBritain event, and hopes this year will be even more popular than the first.

So far over 250 people have signed up to the event on September 7, one of 11 across the country.

Blenheim is the only open water event on the SwimBritain calendar and is part of a national push to get more people swimming.

Participants will swim 1,000m or 500m each, in four legs of 250m or 125m, as part of a team in the Palace's Great Lake.

Over 900 people took part in the first Blenheim Palace SwimBritain event last September, and Keri-Anne is hopeful of an even better turnout this year.

"The event last year was brilliant, it was outstanding, we had a really sunny day," she said.

"It was really nice to see so many people taking part and having fun, that was what really blew me away last year.

"If you're apprehensive about it you can join a team and be part of a relay and go through it all together.

"This the best way of having a taster into the world of open water swimming."

Former Olympic silver medallist and two-time World Champion Keri-Anne added that open water swimming has benefited from the legacy of London 2012.

"I think it has," she said, "and to be honest I noticed it from 2008 after the Beijing Olympics. "Going into that I had to explain to people what open water swimming is and now coming away from that they understand it, they have stories and they enjoy watching it.

"We already have around 250 people joining in on this swim and we just really want to get more people involved in open water swimming."

This year children as young as 12 can take part in SwimBritain and to enter visit swimbritain.co.uk/members/enter.

News Bites

Station work

OXON: The platforms at Thame Parkway and Bicester North will be extended as part of the Oxford to London Marylebone rail link.

Nine-carriage trains will be able to stop at the stations from summer 2015, with work starting in July.

Liam Sumpter, area director for Network Rail, said: "The nature of the work means there will be some disruption, but we continue to work closely with Chiltern Railways."

Spring clean

CHERWELL: Volunteers have helped clean up the district after more than two tonnes of rubbish was collected during an annual spring clean.

Over a four-week period during March and April, 38 organisations from across Cherwell signed up to the district council's 10th spring clean event.

Flag retired

WALLINGFORD: RAF Benson retired its 26-year-old serving flag at St Mary-le-More Church, Wallingford, last Tuesday.

Airmen from the base paraded through the town before Wing Commander Mark Biggadike, of the 33 squadron, placed the 1988 standard on the altar.

Eoin's epic journey of rowing the Atlantic

ROWING across the Atlantic while living off purified seawater is not how most teenagers spend their winters.

However, that is exactly what 17-year-old Eoin Hartwright, from Appleford, did, as he became the youngest person to row the Atlantic.

"I grew up really quickly," he said, "It didn't feel like I was the youngest person."

Eoin, alongside uncle Simon Hartwright, 40, Matthew Collier, 49, and Tom Alden, 30, completed the Talisker Whiskey Atlantic Rowing Challenge earlier this year in 43 days.

And on Tuesday night they premiered a documentary of their challenge from La Gomera in the Canary Islands, to Antigua in the Caribbean, at Cornerstone, Didcot.

However, it was not all plain sailing for Eoin as he initially set off on the challenge as part of a three-man crew on December 4 last year.

Disagreements on the boat led to the trio returning to port, but within 10 days Eoin had set up a new team: Quad Atlantic.

Eoin said: "I was lucky in a way because I had my uncle on board. He is a very upbeat person and he always kept the boat in a good mood."

By Jack Johnson
jack@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The quartet's routine was two hours rowing and two hours resting, and there was a particular time of day that Eoin most enjoyed.

"At night it would all go dark and the stars were all amazing," he said, "I was eager to see them every night."

Tom added: "When we had a clear night you could see a full 360 around you. That was really lovely."

Conditions varied from millponds to 60ft waves, while swordfish circled the boat for four hours and the team had a rather close encounter with a whale.

Quad Atlantic has so far raised over £8,000 for Helen and Douglas House.

Store gets approval

A WAITROSE store on Botley Road was given the green light by city councillors last week.

The West Area Planning Committee voted in favour of the plans to build a 24,500 sq ft store on the former Halfords and MFI site by five votes to two.

However, a condition was passed for a pedestrian crossing to be installed near the entrance of the store.

Officers recommended the project for approval despite admitting that "the proposals are likely to worsen existing severe traffic congestion along Botley Road".

The 1980s former-MFI building, which is currently home to a temporary Cancer Research UK shop, will be bulldozed as part of the plans.

The store will create up to 160 new jobs, and 148 parking spaces could be open next year.

Waitrose spokesperson James Armstrong said: "This is a major step forward in realising what we believe is an exciting opportunity to bring major investment to Botley Road and open our nearest store to the city centre.

"By revitalising a vacant site, we can deliver more choice and significant employment opportunities for local people."

Henning Wehn

POPULAR German comedian Henning Wehn brings his brand new show 'Eins Zwei DIY' to Oxford's North Wall Arts Centre on Saturday evening.

Henning has made numerous television appearances in his self-appointed role of German Comedy Ambassador, on programmes such as 'Room 101', 'QI' and '8 Out Of 10 Cats'.

The show begins at 8pm.

Guitarist Jeff

RENOWNED electric guitarist Jeff Beck has brought his long-awaited tour to the UK, which makes a stop at Oxford's New Theatre on Saturday.

The Grammy award-winning guitarist is set to perform a the eclectic musical mix that is his trademark alongside his band, with support coming from Mike Sanchez.

It starts at 7.30pm.

Fun in the sea

OXFORD'S Pegasus Theatre is host to Rock Pool, the story of two very different sea creatures who are left stranded, today and tomorrow.

The children's production sees Prawn and Crab try to find their way home after getting stuck in a rock pool, and is suitable for ages three and over.

Telling George's story

THE life story of singer, actor and comedian George Formby is told in a one-man show coming to Didcot's Cornerstone theatre on Saturday.

Ewan Wardrop wrote and performs the show, which charts Formby's rise from humble beginnings to becoming one of Britain's biggest stars of the 20th century.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Formby was one of the UK's highest-paid entertainers during the 1930s and '40s, becoming well-known for humorous songs such as 'When I'm Cleaning Windows'.

He and his wife Beryl travelled extensively during the Second World War, and it is estimated that they played before three million Allied soldiers during that time.

It was while Ewan was growing up that he found out about Formby, and has remained a fan of his work ever since.

Ewan added: "It wasn't until I met Ed Hughes, who's the director of the play, when we were in a play together that he said 'do you want to do something about George Formby?'

"At the time, I hadn't because I was aware of what a big story it was.

"It's a hard one to play as well, but he and I met up once a week at a pub, and came up with a show."

Performing in a one-man show is something Ewan has never done before, and he has been enjoying the challenge throughout the process.

It has already received critical acclaim at the Edinburgh Festival last year, and is currently touring the UK throughout the spring.

"It's a different sort of performing," said Ewan. "I do stand-up as well, and this feels somewhere between that and normal acting.

"You've got an audience staring back at you saying 'entertain me', and you've got no-one else to pass those nerves onto, so it's a big challenge.

"It's been a steep learning curve, but I think any actor should do it because it does challenge you, and it's extremely rewarding."

'Formby' starts at 8pm.

Evening fun

MUSEUMS across Oxfordshire will be open into the evening between today and Saturday.

Abingdon's museum will be hosting live music on the roof, Wallingford's museum will be hosting a quiz and The Oxfordshire Museum in Woodstock is telling animal stories as part of Museums at Night 2014.

For more details, go to museumsatnight.org.uk.

Jimi Goodwin

JIMI Goodwin, best known for being the bassist, vocalist and guitarist for Doves, performs a solo show at Oxford's O2 Academy on Monday.

He released his debut solo album 'Odludek' in March, and has recently been touring alongside Elbow to promote the new record.

Doors open at 7pm.

Stepping Out

WALLINGFORD'S Corn Exchange is host to Stepping Out, a comedy about eight individuals from disparate backgrounds who attend a weekly tap dancing class, from Tuesday.

The students at the class treat them as social occasions, and despite showing little coordination, they eventually develop a level of skill and cohesiveness before performing at a charity event.

Violin concerto

RUSSIAN violin virtuoso Dmitry Sitkovetsky comes to Oxford's Sheldonian Theatre this weekend, to perform the world premiere of Nimrod Borenstein's 'Concerto for Violin and Orchestra' with the Oxford Philomusica.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Dmitry is renowned worldwide for his classical music skills, and has played with numerous orchestras across the globe including the Los Angeles, Berlin and New York Philharmonics.

This concerto is split into four movements, and is scored for double-woodwinds, four horns, two trumpets, two trombones, timpani, vibraphone and strings.

"About three years ago, I met Nimrod and he expressed his wish to write a violin concerto for me," said Dmitry.

"A year and a half ago Nimrod started writing the concerto and then he showed it to me. I made a few suggestions, and a couple of months later he brought the final version, which will be premiered this weekend.

"Premiering a new work is perhaps the most exciting and nerve-wracking part of being a performer.

"You have to win over the audience and also give the new work hopefully a long life on stage. A lot depends on how well all musicians are prepared and committed to the piece."

Dmitry has been playing the violin for a young age, and is the fourth generation of classical musicians in his family.

This will be the first time that he has played alongside the Oxford Philomusica, although he has made a previous visit to the Sheldonian.

"I played once in the Sheldonian in the early '90s when I was performing the Elgar concerto with Lord Yehudi Menuhin and the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra," Dmitry added.

"Since then I have visited Oxford many times between 2009 and 2012, when my daughter Julia was a student at Queens College."

The performance at the Sheldonian starts at 8pm on Saturday. For more details, go to ox.ac.uk/sheldonian.

ANHSO - THE RISE AND FALL OF OUR WOOD CULTURE - DR GABRIEL HEMERY
"Over the last 350 years the nature and health of our woodlands and treescapes have changed in step with their utility. Today, perhaps more so than in the last one hundred years, great sylvan opportunities lie ahead, and some significant challenges. Dr Hemery celebrates the legacy of Evelyn's 1664 Sylva, and looks to the future.
As a practising silvologist (forest scientist) Dr Gabriel Hemery has undertaken research in subjects ranging from the walnut-fruit forests of Kyrgyzstan, to rearing chickens in farm woodlands; authoring more than 70 scientific articles. He created a new research woodland in Oxfordshire, Paradise Wood, and has planted tens of thousands of trees in field trials across Britain. His first book, The New Sylva, was published by Bloombsury in April 2014."

LANGTREE SINFONIA SPRING CONCERT
"The evening starts with the overture to Beethoven's incidental music for the play `The Ruins of Athens'. Written in 1811, the complete music includes the famous `Turkish' March as well as nine other numbers. Mendelssohn's Scottish Symphony was inspired by his first visit to Britain in 1829. He sketched out his first ideas after a visit to Holyrood Palace in Edinburg during a walking holiday and although the work took a long time to complete it became about his most popular piece. Haydn became very popular in England, and was able to make a name for himself with works which suited the British taste. His `Harmoniemesse' was the last of 14 masses he wrote and gets its name from the unusual prominence of wind instruments in the piece. Performing the piece tonight will be the Thames Consort and members of the Dorchester Abbey Choir.

Dacia's Duster delivers knock-out value

REVIEW: Dacia Duster Ambiance dCi 110 2WD

By Philip Shoulder

@writeonmotoring

RENAULT'S subsidiary budget brand Dacia has been making waves since it splashed onto the UK automotive scene with the Duster.

This SUV's distinctive looks have a functional robustness, from the bluff front and rear, straight flanks and flared wheel arches housing chunky mud and snow tyre shod wheels. Even before it's moved an inch, the Duster looks ready to 'off-road', and unlike many SUV/crossovers, it has the ground clearance to do just that.

Available in both two and four wheel drive form, the Duster uses proven Renault-Nissan Alliance technology, with 4x4 models featuring selectable three-mode, four-wheel drive as standard (2WD, Auto and Lock).

Two Renault group engines are offered: a 1.6-litre petrol and 1.5 dCi diesel. Tested here is the diesel motor, which in two-wheel drive guise returns an official combined 56.5 mpg and emits 130 g/km.

The 105 bhp diesel is a punchy performer, propelling the Duster along smartly, aided by the six-speed gearbox with well chosen ratios, which ensure good tractability at low speeds, decent in-gear acceleration, while also allowing for a relaxed 2,800rpm cruise at 75mph.

Admittedly there isn't the sharp dynamic focus that you'd find on a Nissan Qashqai, Mazda CX-5, or Hyundai ix35, but body control is still good enough through the corners. The Duster's greatest asset however is its exceptionally smooth and pliant ride, which effectively irons out even rough road surfaces.

As you'd expect, given the price, the quality of the Duster's interior isn't up to that of more expensive rivals. Switchgear, especially the ventilation controls feels pretty cheap, but everything works and the overall feel of the cabin is actually quite acceptable.

There's also no denying the sheer lack of equipment and features. On the cheapest Access version, even a stereo is an option. This £ 11,995 mid-spec Ambiance gets a CD/MP3 player with Bluetooth connectivity, which is intuitive and straightforward to operate. But if you want luxuries like air-conditioning and a trip-computer, you'll need the top-spec Lauréate - still far from expensive at £13,495 in 2WD guise.

VERDICT:

The Dacia Duster is a welcome breath of fresh air. It offers a no-nonsense, 'does-what-it-says-on-the-tin' approach to motoring and for that it must be heartily applauded. Look past the slightly rough edges and you're left with a truly capable small SUV, that's worthy of consideration against considerably more expensive rivals.

Burnell hopeful of home triumph

• Justin Burnell (Picture by Martin John)

LONDON Welsh head coach Justin Burnell is challenging his players to have a fast-start against Leeds Carnegie on Sunday as the Exiles look to book their place in the Greene King IPA Championship final.

The Dragons lost the first leg of the semi-final 38-31 at Headingley last Sunday.

However, Burnell is hoping home advantage will give Welsh the edge and is urging his players to be positive against Leeds and look to score early.

"It's disappointing to be seven points behind going into the game, but at the end of the day it's at home," he said.

"Hindsight is a wonderful thing, but if we can score first then it's back to nil-nil.

"That would be the ideal situation, get the first scores on the board and then play for the next 70 minutes."

He continued: "It's a home game. It's a bit irrelevant who you play.

"It's all to play for and we're going to go out with the view of winning the game.

"I think a good crowd, really getting behind us, could contrast seven points before we've even started."

Despite outscoring Leeds with three tries to two, eight penalties hurt Welsh on the scoreboard last week, including Alex Lozowski's three-pointer from the last kick of the game.

Burnell added: "It was very disappointing.

"They scored 24 points from the boot and wherever you play you can't just hand over 24 points, so that is an area we are very conscious of and we really have to tighten up on.

"We let them in for two easy tries, but our defence has been a massive plus for us all year.

"There was some good positives, we scored three tries in comparison to two, we just had a poor start, but it's all to play for now."

However, the Exiles do have concerns over the fitness of Alex Davies (knee) and Daniel Browne (hamstring), who were both forced off at Headingley.

Burnell said: "They could still be in contention. We're just waiting for the medical reports, so that's not completely dead and buried yet."

Awcock ready for battle as Exiles welcome Leeds

ALAN Awcock says London Welsh will not hold anything back as they look to overturn a seven-point deficit in the second leg of their Greene King IPA Championship play-off against Leeds Carnegie.

The Exiles welcome Leeds to the Kassam Stadium this Sunday after last weekend's 38-31 defeat at Headingley.

A place in the final against either Rotherham Titans or Bristol is, according to Awcock, all the motivation that is needed.

"All the boys know that, we're well aware of it," he said, "and no one's hiding behind anything.

"Everyone wants to play in the final, that's where we want to be.

"We've got a good squad and there's no reason why we shouldn't be there, as long as we put in a performance on Sunday at the Kassam."

Awcock went over twice after replacing the injured Alex Davies and added: "I don't think we ever struggle to score tries, we like to get over the whitewash."

Kick-off on Sunday is at 12.45pm.

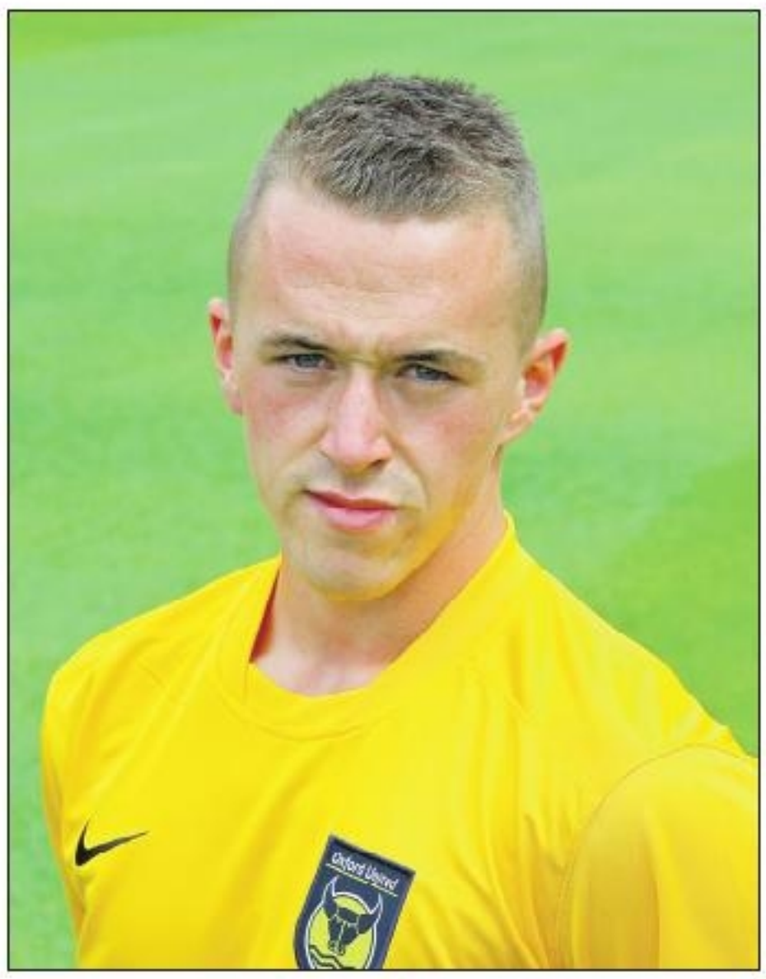
Waddock gives duo a chance with new deals



OXFORD United head coach Gary Waddock says Sam Long and Josh Shama "deserve their chance" after the two youngsters signed new deals at the club this week.

Long and Shama, both 19, agreed one-year deals on Tuesday, with the club retaining the option of a 12-month extension.

Defender Long made six first team appearances for United last season, while Shama starred in the development squad, playing in every game.

jack@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Shama, a former Reading trainee, suffered an injury in pre-season, but made the bench for United's final Sky Bet League 2 game of the season at Northampton Town.

Waddock said: "Both of them have done really well.

"Fans have seen Sam in the first team already and he has real potential as well as a fantastic attitude.

"Josh is a player who we have high hopes for because he has quality on the ball and works so hard for the whole 90 minutes.

"They both deserve their chance to push on, keep working at their game and build on a highly promising first year as professionals with the club."

Waddock was also full of praise for the rest of the development squad with Josh Ashby, Sam Humphreys, James Roberts and Aidan Hawtin all signing deals.

They join Josh Ruffels, Callum O'Dowda, Tyrone Marsh and Max Crocombe who have all tasted first team football.

Waddock added: "It's exciting.

"Having young players come through is always going to be healthy for any club.

"They want to learn, they work hard at their game and have that enthusiasm that fans love to see.

"I am delighted that the younger players want to play a part in what we are building here."

As the Guardian went to print, the only players not to sign new deals were James Constable, Tom Newey and Matt Bevans.

Rowers named in squad for championships

THE Oxfordshire trio of Frances Houghton, Olivia Carnegie-Brown and Katie Greves have been included in the GB Rowing Team squad travelling to Belgrade later this month for the European Championships.

Double Olympic silver medal winner Houghton will be competing in the women's double scull with team-mate Victoria Thornley.

Start graduate Carnegie-Brown, along with Greves, was named as part of nine rowers in the women's eight squad.

Following the selection of the squad, chief coach Jurgen Grobler said: "I am looking forward to seeing how all the rowers perform in Belgrade at what a new event for us in recent years.

"I am sure that the opposition will be strong and it will be a good test for us."

Sir David Tanner, GB Rowing Team's performance director, said: "The European Championships are now an important event in their own right, and we are ambitious to do well in Belgrade.

"We are excited to see how our winter's training translates into these first races before making decisions on the World Cups in June and July, and the World Championships in August."

Women hope for better luck against County

OXFORD United Women will hope to pick up their first points this evening, as they host Notts County Ladies at Northcourt Road, Abingdon.

The women have lost their opening three fixtures, and were thrashed by Bristol Academy Women 9-2 in the Women's Super League Continental Cup at the start of the month.

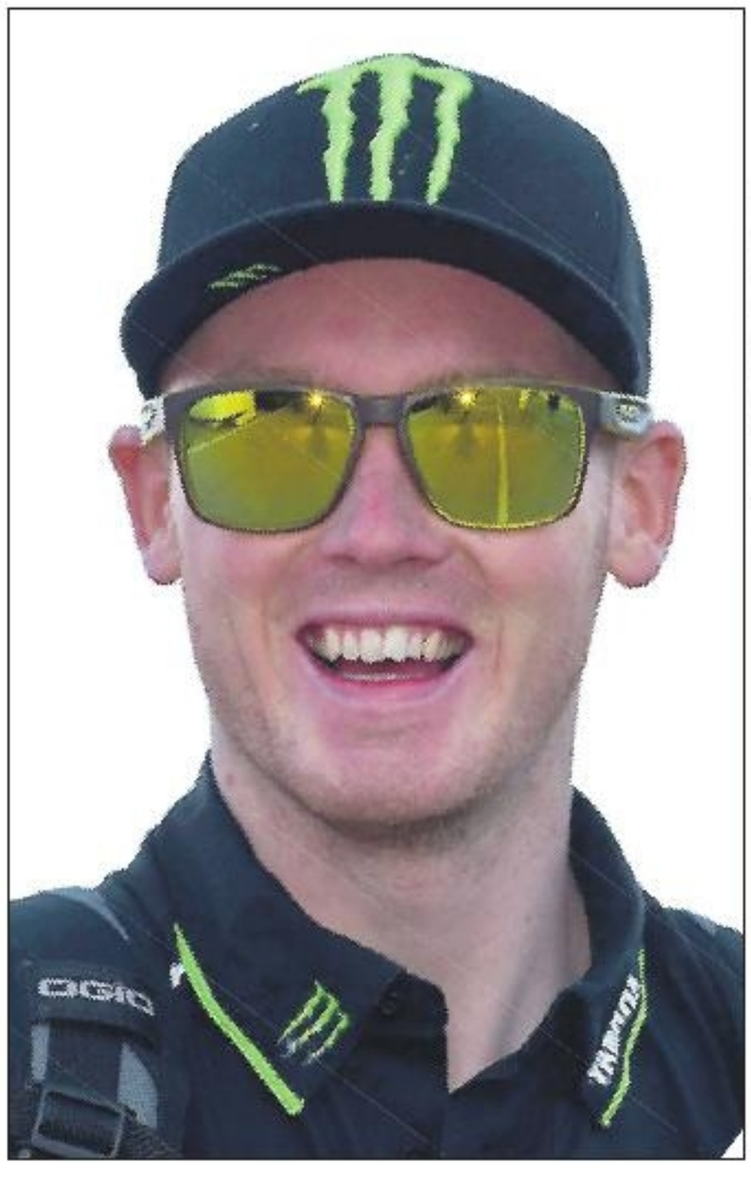
And while manager Les Taylor expects Notts County to be of similar quality to Bristol, he is anticipating a much improved performance from his side.

"Our work's going to be cut out," he said. "We've done a lot of work on our shape after the Bristol game, so again I just hope that we're competitive.

"From the outset we're up against it and those games are going to be difficult, but they're a challenge.

"We like to go into the big games, hopefully to pull off a win so we'll give it a go."

Winger Katie Stanley will miss the match after picking up a back problem.



'Confident' Smith hopes for another good result in France

BRADLEY Smith is confident of a competitive showing at Le Mans this weekend as MotoGP heads to France for round five.

The Monster Yamaha Tech3 rider is eighth in the rider standings and is optimistic of a strong performance at his team's home grand prix

"I am happy and confident that we will have a very competitive bike for the Tech3 team's home race in Le Mans where I am sure we can score a positive result," he said.

"We had an important test at Jerez the day after the (last) grand prix and we collected a large amount of data with some changes working better than others, leaving us with a clear idea of where we can head towards next in terms of setup direction."

World champion Marc Marquez leads the standings after winning all four races so far this year, with Honda Repsol teammate Dani Pedrosa 28 points behind in second.

Dressage delight

HENLEY dressage rider Samantha Thurman-Baker enjoyed a successful outing to Buckinghamshire, posting strong results at the Addington Manor Premier League.

Samantha, 21, rode long-term partner Spring Pascal in the British Dressage Inter II test last Friday, winning the class after posting a score 69.512 per cent.

She then went on to contest Saturday's FEI Grand Prix with the same horse, going up against a field of 28 other riders.

A score of 71.367 per cent saw Samantha finish second behind Michael Eilberg, with the pair being the only two riders to post scores above 70 per cent.

Samantha also competed on her sister's horse Highcliffe Apollo in Friday's Inter I competition, finishing 10th in a competitive class.

And it got better for Samantha, who won the FE Young Rider Team test after accumulating a score of 68.355 per cent.

Samantha receives lottery funding from UK sport and is helped by the World Class Development Programme, which works with riders competing in dressage, eventing, showjumping and para-equestrian dressage.

Grosjean scores four points at Spanish Grand Prix

LOTUS OFF THE MARK

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

ROMAIN Grosjean scored Enstone-based Lotus F1's first points of the season on Sunday, as he finished eighth at the Spanish Grand Prix.

Lotus have endured a miserable start to the year, but a number of new upgrades for the start of the European season seemed to have boosted their performance.

Grosjean had started fifth and remained there for the first half of the race, but a sensor problem caused his Renault engine to lose power and he slipped down the order.

"It's been a tough battle for us to get points this season and that was certainly one of the hardest races I've contested in a long time," said Grosjean.

"I did everything I could to drive around the power unit issues, which made things difficult when battling the others.

"It's good for all the crew at the track and at Enstone to finally get a reward for all their hard work."

Meanwhile, a crash in the first qualifying session meant that Pastor Maldonado had to start the race from the back, ruining his chances of a strong result.

He then collided with Caterham driver Marcus Ericsson on the first lap, earning Maldonado his fourth penalty point of the season.

The remainder of the Venezuelan's race was largely uneventful, as he eventually made his way up the order to come home 15th.

"We made a step forward in terms of pace with the car this weekend," said Maldonado. "It was much more competitive than 15th but my race had already been compromised.

"But at least we saw the chequered flag and collected more data for the team to keep on developing the car."

Grosjean is now 13th in the standings thanks to his four points from Spain, and the team are eighth in the constructors' championship.

Elsewhere, Leafield-based Caterham had a weekend to forget as they ended the race at the back of the pack.

Kamui Kobayashi was running in 19th when a brake failure ended his day on lap 34, while Ericsson completed the race in 20th position.

Caterham are still behind rivals Marussia in the championship standings, due to the Banbury outfit having had one more 13th-place finish.
